The situation of African migrants was discussed during this interview, especially those risking their lives to cross the Mediterranean sea for Europe because of the dire economic situation of their countries and armed conflicts across the continent.

IV. Ratification status of the African Union Convention for the protection and assistance of internally displaced persons in Africa

34. During the intersession period, I continued to monitor the ratification status of the African Union Convention for the protection and assistance of internally displaced persons in Africa (Kampala Convention). As we are celebrating the second anniversary of the entry into force of the Convention, twenty-two (22) countries in total have ratified/acceded to the Convention. These are: Angola, Benin, Burkina Faso, Central African Republic, Chad, Côte d’Ivoire, Gabon, The Gambia, Guinea Bissau, Lesotho, Mali, Malawi, Nigeria, Niger, Rwanda, Sahrawi Arab Democratic Republic, Sierra Leone, Swaziland, Togo, Uganda, Zambia and Zimbabwe. To date, twenty (20) countries have signed including Burundi, Comoros, Congo, Democratic Republic of Congo, Djibouti, Equatorial Guinea, Eritrea, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea Conakry, Liberia, Mozambique, Mauritania, Namibia, Senegal, Somalia, Sao Tomé and Principe, South Sudan, Tanzania and Tunisia.

35. Statistical data shows that twelve (12) countries have neither signed nor ratified the Convention. These include: Algeria, Botswana, Cameroon, Cabo Verde, Egypt, Kenya, Libya, Madagascar, Mauritius, South Africa, Seychelles and Sudan.

37. I participated in this mission in my capacity as Special Rapporteur on Refugees, Asylum Seekers, Internally Displaced Persons and Migrants in Africa. The mission, conducted with the Chairperson of the Commission and the Vice-chairperson, Commissioner in charge of the human rights situation in the CAR, was an opportunity to discuss with the different actors and assess the humanitarian and human rights situation in the CAR.

38. The report including recommendations to the different actors for the promotion and protection of human rights in this country was presented to the Commission during its 17th Extraordinary Session.

VI. Analysis of the situation of refugees, asylum seekers, internally displaced persons and migrants in the past months

39. During this intersession period, the situation of refugees, asylum seekers, internally displaced persons and migrants deteriorated significantly as a result of multiple armed conflicts across the continent, particularly in the Central African Republic, Libya, Somalia, Mali and the DRC. Attacks by terrorist groups such as Boko Haram in Nigeria, Niger and Cameroon also contribute to the drastic increase in the number of refugees and internally displaced persons and it is becoming increasingly difficult to properly assist these persons.

40. The situation of migrants is of growing concern with the increase in the number of people prepared to board insecure boats at the risk of their lives to travel to Europe as a result of political instability compounded by the lack of security in many countries. Thousands have thus lost their lives while others live under precarious conditions at detention camps in host countries, particularly in Lampedusa, Italy.
41. Xenophobic violence currently in South Africa has grave consequences on the situation of refugees and migrants, who are the primary victims of such violence; and this is all the more serious for they are already vulnerable due to their refugee or migrant status.

42. Furthermore, the fight against terrorism has become an excuse to adopt restrictive laws that target refugees and migrants in particular. I am deeply concerned by this situation and it is with this in mind that I make the following recommendations to the different actors capable of providing solutions.

VII. Recommendations

43. Following this report, I would like to make recommendations to the different stakeholders as follows:

A. To States parties to the African Charter:

- Adopt practical measures to prevent forced displacements of populations both within and beyond borders regardless of the reason for displacement (armed conflict, climate change, large development projects) and ensure their protection should prevention measures fail;

- For those that are yet to do so, ratify and/or speed up the ratification process of the African Union Convention for the protection and assistance of internally displaced persons in Africa (Kampala Convention), and for those that have ratified the Convention, effectively implement it through national laws and action plans;

- Continue efforts for enhanced protection and assistance of refugees in their countries in collaboration with UNHCR and other humanitarian organizations;

- Ensure that, in combating terrorism, no restrictive law that infringes on the rights of refugees and migrants or likely to stigmatize them is adopted.
B. To the Office of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees

- Work proactively with States to propose solutions to address the situation of refugees and particularly that of migrants;

- Continue to support the mechanism in carrying out its mandate on the issue of nationality in Africa and its efforts to eradicate statelessness.

C. To civil society and other partners

- Continue advocacy actions for the ratification of the Kampala Convention;
- Disseminate and popularize the study on nationality;
- Continue actions on the ground to keep us apprised of the situation of refugees, asylum seekers, internally displaced persons and migrants;
- Provide support and assistance to the Special Rapporteur enabling her to properly fulfil her mandate.
